ASSISTANCE IN RECOVERY

Improving lives together

About AiR

AiR: Assistance in Recovery is a national organization of professional intervention specialists, recovery and addiction licensed counselors and consultants that provide fast and effective crisis management services through a proven protocol of education, action and healing as well as behavioral health management services and aftercare recovery assistance programs. One phone call to AiR will put in place the proper resources to dissolve the crisis and put the family, organization and addicted individual on a solid course of recovery.

Families and Organizations in crisis due to addiction feel adrift.

Our clients are lost, angry, confused and frightened. Our experience tells us that they don't know where to turn or how to navigate the vast sea of options available to help the alcoholic/addict and their family or organization.

Mental health professionals, doctors, lawyers and clergy can be effective resources. However, they typically are not able to institute immediate solutions to crisis situations stemming from addiction.

Our staff is prepared to step in quickly and provide comfort, hope, stability and guidance out of crisis to all the people involved.

Why AiR is a wise choice:

AiR specializes in addressing crises resulting from alcohol addictions, drug addictions, eating disorders, gambling addiction and sex addiction. Our mission is to be the leading provider of solutions to families and organizations in crisis from addiction and behavioral health issues. AiR's full scope of services are from beginning to end – taking people from intervention to treatment and offering aftercare solutions in their first years of recovery.

High sense of urgency

iR licensed consultants can be reached at any time. We understand the pain and opportunity of crisis and the necessity and benefits of rapid intervention.

Highly skilled specialists

AiR is comprised of consultants and interventionists who are trained professionals, experienced in crisis management techniques as well as a team of recovery support counselors. They listen, learn and take full advantage of all available resources to help move individuals, families and organizations out of crisis situations, into treatment, and support them through their new recovery.

Proven crisis and case management method

AiR's 5-step protocol from pre-planning to follow up is widely accepted as the hallmark of intervention methodology. We put in motion the right resources to address the crisis and put the family or organization and the alcoholic/addict on a solid course of recovery. Our techniques are gentle, respectful and non-confrontational.

Services available throughout the U. S.

AiR has offices strategically located throughout the U.S. to quickly and efficiently reach and service our clients.

Affiliations

AiR is affiliated with the National Association of Addiction Treatment Providers (NAATP) and our consultants are current members of the National Association for Addiction Professionals (NAADAC).
